THE SPEED REALITY

REALITY The IDOT map was released two weeks after a Chicago Tribune analysis showed the actual speed limit—the point at which most motorists are ticketed on interstates in the six-county Chicago region—is about 80 mph. Earlier Tribune research showed 9 of 10 cars on the tollway disregard and exceed the 55-mph speed limit. The average speed in those stretches was 66-70 mph, Tribune research found.

Where
limit will increase

Limit will increase
The speed limit on many Illinois interstates will increase to 70 mph on Jan. 1, but the majority of the Chicago area will remain the same.

SOURCES: Illinois Department of Transportation, ESRI.

TRIBUNE

Sorry, Chicago—that faster speed limit is for the rest of the state

Chicago Tribune

Nearly 90 percent of interstate highway miles in Illinois will have 70-mph speed limits starting Wednesday, state transportation officials announced Friday, but the sponsor of the law raising the limits is upset almost all existing posted speeds in the Chicago area will remain unchanged and he vowed to push for them to be higher.

Drivers on almost 1,900 of the state's nearly 2,170 miles of interstate will be able to travel at 70 mph instead of the existing speed limits, generally 65 mph along rural highways, after crews post the new speed limit signs—weather permitting—Jan. 2-17, according to the Illinois Department of Transportation.

But only about 30 percent of the Illinois Tollway's 286-mile network will get the higher speed limit, according to a map released by IDOT. And in the Chicago area, the 70-mph limit will be posted only on five fairly short stretches of interstate. Those are sections of I-80 and I-55 in Will County, a stretch of I-57 in far southern Cook County and all of Will County, a portion of the I-88 toll road in far western Kane County and part of the I-94 tollway in northern Lake County.

"It's unacceptable," said State Sen. Jim Oberweis (R-Sugar Grove), who sponsored the bill that Gov. Quinn signed into law in August. Oberweis said he was upset that IDOT, which had the authority to draw up the speed limit map, left unchanged the 55-mph speed limit across virtually all of the Chicago region. "They're putting law-abiding citizens into danger."

"It's quite clear" that 85 percent of vehicles are traveling at 70 mph or faster on almost all expressways, Oberweis said, and that the variation between the 55-mph legal limit and 70-mph higher speed is a significant factor in crashes. Oberweis, who is running for U.S. Senate, owns a family dairy company that runs trucks on the highways.

In a statement, IDOT said the new speeds will be placed on interstate stretches "where deemed reasonable and safe." Department spokesman Paris Ervin said the agency conducted traffic engineering studies of all locations with limits below the existing 65-mph maximum and "other locations deemed necessary."

Time for another round of New Year's resolutions! I generally forget these by Jan. 31, but please feel free to take any of these as your own.

New Year's Resolutions

- » After all the Derrick Rose media hype, I will take a medical school entrance exam with my newfound expertise on the medial meniscus and anterior cruciate ligament.
- » Even though I kinda like him, I'll throw up if I see yet another Ron Burgundy promotion.
- » I will Google what "pop that Molly" means.
- » I'll return some of that stolen European art I bought a few years ago from a shady dealer.
- » If I hurt myself twerking, I'll sign up for Obamacare even if I have to wait next to my computer for a week.
- » I'll check into rehab with Chris Brown for my "Minecraft" and "Candy Crush" addictions.
- » I'll visit Dominick's one last time to have a clueless employee send me down the wrong aisle for a bottle of Sriracha.
- » I won't pay for an autograph session with Johnny Manziel. With the money I save, I'll put in an offer on Michael Jordan's mansion in Highland Park.
- » If I cannot decide between the new Xbox One and PS4, I'll just dust off my old Atari 2600.
- » I will finally get into Girl & the Goat for a selfie and buy some $100 cheese at Eataly.
- » I will switch my phone service to Sprint just to see if James Earl Jones and Malcolm McDowell read my texts in a commercial.
- » I will stop hashtagging, especially #breakingbad, #royalbaby, #404error and #ricin.
- » I will stream "Orange Is the New Black" and some Paul Walker movies.
- » Even though I'm not a Catholic, Pope Francis just might get me into a church.
- » I just might visit North Korea with Dennis Rodman to see what they're smoking together over there.
- » I'd like to see Jean-Claude Van Damme do a split between two reversing salt trucks on the
- » I will get a pet camel so he can yell "hump day" to me every Wednesday morning.
- » I will continue to admire Jennifer Lawrence as she crushes anything she does. And feel the exact opposite for James Franco.
- » I will keep watching the Auburn-Alabama 109-yard missed field goal return on my DVR.
- » I will not care who the next Dr. Who is or what a Kimye is.
- » I'll get a head start on growing my playoff beard as the Hawks make another long run into the postseason.
- » And finally, I will knit "Never kick a field goal on second down" on my next ugly holiday sweater.

Fellow officers salute Officer Cuauhtemoc Estrada outside Holy Name Cathedral during his funeral service held Saturday. ABEL URIBE/TRIBUNE

A final farewell

Chicago Tribune

Cook County said goodbye Saturday to officer Cuauhtemoc Estrada, the sheriff's investigator and Marine Corps veteran who was shot and killed Dec. 20 while protecting his daughter and her boyfriend from armed robbers.

In Holy Name Cathedral, Estrada was celebrated as a dedicated officer who cared deeply about his family and his community. He died serving both, and law enforcement officials from all over Cook County and beyond filled the pews at the Near North Side church to pay their respects.

"He was just a good, strong person with a lot of love for our family," said Felipe Gallegos, a nephew, who gave the eulogy. "He'd give out the best helping hand he could give to you."

Hundreds of suburban, county, state, Chicago and federal law enforcement officers lined the street outside the Roman Catholic cathedral before the service. The block in front of the church remained quiet until a band of bagpipes and drums signaled the hearse's arrival. Many passers-by stopped to watch and photograph the procession, which also included a police color guard.

Police said they tracked footprints from the crime scene to a nearby house, where they arrested two men. Brandon Jackson and Gage Thornton, both 22, were ordered held without bail Monday. They face charges of first-degree murder and attempted armed robbery.

The officers and deputies, many wearing dress uniforms with black mourning bands across their stars, saluted Estrada's casket as it was carried into the church. Inside the church, mourners stood as the casket was sprinkled with holy water. Cook County Sheriff Tom Dart and State's Attorney Anita Alvarez were among those in attendance.

EXPRESS LINES

» A 69-year-old woman was sexually assaulted and robbed as she exited an Orange Line CTA train and was getting into her vehicle on Friday, police said.

» Someone fired shots at an off-duty police officer, hitting the officer's vehicle, in Back of the Yards on Sunday morning, police said.

» A third person has been arrested and charged in connection with the slaying and decapitation of a West Side man in May, police said.

Suicide bomber kills at least 16 in Russia

VOLGOGRAD, Russia A suicide bomber set off a blast in the entrance hall of a Russian train station Sunday, investigators said, killing at least 16 people in the second deadly attack within three days as the country prepares to host the Winter Olympics.

Authorities said the attacker detonated a shrapnel-filled bomb in front of a metal detector just inside the main entrance of the station in Volgograd, a busy hub north of the violence-plagued North Caucasus region on Russia's southern fringe.

Islamist militants in the North Caucasus have carried out a long string of attacks since President Vladimir Putin came to power in 2000. They now confront him with his biggest security challenge, threatening to disrupt the Olympics that start in the Black Sea resort of Sochi in 40 days.

Footage shown on TV captured the moment of the blast, as a massive orange fireball filled the hall of the stately, colonnaded station and clouds of grey smoke poured out of shattered windows.

The station was busier than usual, with people traveling home for the New Year, one of the main holidays in Russia.

"People were lying on the ground, screaming and calling for help," a witness, Alexander Koblyakov, told Rossiya-24 TV. "I helped carry out a police officer whose head and face were covered in blood. He couldn't speak."

"We can expect more such attacks," said Alexei Filatov, deputy head of the veterans' association of the elite Alfa anti-terrorism unit.

"The threat is greatest now because it is when terrorists can make the biggest impression," he told Reuters. "The security measures were beefed up long ago around Sochi, so terrorists will strike instead in these nearby cities like Volgograd."

Investigative Committee spokesman Vladimir Markin said 16 people were killed in the attack, including two who died in hospital.

Marijuana retailers stock up for Jan. 1 opening in Colorado

The world's first state-licensed marijuana retailers, catering to Colorado's newly legal recreational market for pot, are stocking their shelves ahead of a New Year's grand opening. Starting Jan. 1, cannabis will be legally sold and taxed at specially regulated retailers in a system modeled after a regime many states have in place for alcohol sales.

Iran parliament backs nuclear speedup if U.S. adds sanctions

More than two-thirds of the Iranian parliament has signed on to a bill that would accelerate Iran's nuclear program if Congress adopts new sanctions legislation, official news agencies said. The bill would direct Iran's nuclear agency to enrich uranium to 60 percent, close to the 90 percent needed for the material to be used as nuclear bomb fuel.

Rocket fired from Lebanon sparks Israeli retaliation

In the first border flare-up of its kind in four months, a Katyusha rocket fired from Lebanon struck northern Israel on Sunday, triggering a heavy artillery barrage from Israeli forces in response. No casualties were immediately reported on either side of the frontier.

BAD DREAMS

If only the Bears could wake up from this nightmare end to their turbulent season

By Chris Sosa | REDEYE

It could have been Chicago's dream come true: winning a division title at the expense of its archrival and earning a home playoff game next week.

Yet the city got its worst nightmare: the Packers celebrating yet another huge victory in Chicago, and the Bears going home for the winter.

The soul crusher came with 38 seconds remaining. Green Bay quarterback Aaron Rodgers, in his first game back from a broken collarbone, found Randall Cobb for a 48-yard touchdown pass on fourth-and-8. No Bears defender was within a mile of Cobb when Rodgers released the ball.

"I was thinking, 'You better not drop it, you better catch it,'" Cobb said. "I could see and feel the guy behind me."

The Bears had 38 seconds to try to assemble a miracle drive, but Jay Cutler's Hail Mary on the last play was intercepted.

When it was over, the Bears' 33-28 loss sealed at Soldier Field, receiver Brandon Marshall couldn't even pick himself up off the field right away, lying facedown on the turf in disbelief.

"I laid there for a few seconds, and I knew that wasn't a good look," Marshall said afterward. "I immediately thought about Ray Lewis when they lost to, I believe, the Patriots. ... Just tried to figure out the best way to move forward as fast as possible. Ray Lewis picked himself up, put a smile on his face and won the Super Bowl the next year [in 2013]."

Will the Bears try again next year with Cutler, who's a free agent after this season?

"Man, you know how I feel about Jay," Marshall said. "That's my quarterback. We're attached at the hip. I don't have any inside information, but Jay will be back."

Of course, the Bears have not realized their ultimate goal of a Super Bowl title since the 1985 season. They won't have a chance to redeem themselves until 2014. Until then, they're stuck with what could have been.

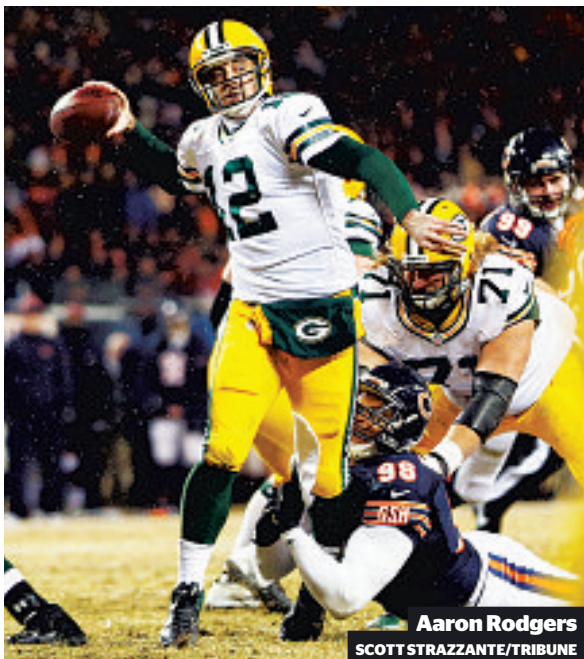

CHSOSA@TRIBUNE.COM | @REDEYESPORTSCHI

Nightmare: Aaron Rodgers

We could stop here, really. Not even a broken collarbone could keep this Bears killer from ripping Chicago's heart out, stomping on it, putting it in a shredder and setting it on fire. We could give you his final stats, but why twist the knife at this point?

Quotable: "He was Aaron Rodgers. He made some plays, he gave us some plays—it's the NFL. But he made the plays when it counted."

—Bears cornerback Tim Jennings

Nightmare: Bears defense

Rodgers had 17.8 seconds to throw every time he went back to pass. Yes, that's an exaggeration, but we could throw that number out there and no one would blink. That's how much time he had, no matter how many players the Bears ran at him.

Quotable: "We put ourselves in a good situation forcing them into [fourth downs], and we've gotta get off [the field]. It's as simple as that."

—Bears defensive lineman Corey Wootton

Nightmare: Fourth downs

Three times the Bears had a chance to stop the Packers on fourth down on their final drive. And three times they failed. Including when Rodgers found Cobb for the 48-yard touchdown pass that gave the Packers a 33-28 lead with 38 seconds left. THAT is why Chicago is speechless right now.

Quotable: "It was a little miscommunication on that [touchdown] play; they found the gap. We had a couple of opportunities [on the Packers' final drive], and we just didn't make a play."
—Bears cornerback Tim Jennings

Matt Forte
SCOTT STRAZZANTE/TRIBUNE

Dream: Matt Forte

On one critical drive in the second half, the Bears handed the ball to Forte five times. Because that's all they needed to do. He ended the day with 110 yards rushing, 47 receiving and three total touchdowns. That Pro Bowl selection is looking pretty darn justified right about now.

Quotable: "He did a heck of a job for us. I think he's the best all-around back in the NFL. He had 60-plus catches this year, and he ran the heck out of the ball. I'm glad he's on our team."
—Jay Cutler, on Matt Forte

Dream: Brandon Marshall and Alshon Jeffery

Whether it was Cutler or Josh McCown at QB, these two receivers did nothing but produce all year. On Sunday, they combined for nine catches, 154 yards and a TD. Fortunately, they're not going anywhere.

Quotable: "We're definitely thankful for the opportunity we had to control our own destiny. Couldn't ask for anything more than that, and we didn't get it done."
—Brandon Marshall

Nightmare: Jordy Nelson

The Packers star receiver had 161 yards receiving, almost every one of them clutch. As bad as the Bears defense was heading into this game—and during the game Sunday—Nelson was Green Bay's top playmaker not wearing No. 12.

Nightmare: Painful mistakes

When is a sack not a sack? When one is followed by a personal foul, leading to a field goal. And when the other ends in a fumble that is picked up by your player, then dropped, then scooped up and taken in for a Green Bay touchdown.

1	What have we learned from the Bears this season?	That watching them is a lot easier with immediate access to bourbon.	Don't kick field goals on second down.	That no matter how bad things may get, it's always worse in Detroit.	You don't need to put together even close to a respectable season to make the playoffs.	It's never too cold to wear short sleeves.
2	How did Matt Forte and Brandon Marshall celebrate their Pro Bowl selections?	By immediately buying those gross neon jerseys they'll be wearing? Yuck.	They got laid.	They bought matching orange cleats that they both will wear and subsequently be fined for.	A couple of chocolate milkshakes from The Wieners Circle. :)	Giant candy canes!
3	What will Robbie Gould do with the money from his new contract extension?	Three words: Solid. Gold. Boot. "whispers" "What do you mean it'll be too heavy?"	Fund a campaign to teach the remaining 10 percent of Chicagoans how to pronounce his name.	From what he said about needing to feed his kids, I hope it's groceries. Lots and lots of groceries.	Buy a big-boy first name.	Make it rain! ... I don't know what that means, but it sounds like fun!
4	Derrick Rose can lift with his upper body again. What's that mean?	Some clown will write that his body language means he wants to be traded. Give me a break.	He doesn't need any help picking up his finger and clicking "close" on articles smearing him.	He can finally feed himself?	The Bulls are putting out meaningless press releases to make fans feel like there's hope.	He can put on his shirt without any help. Can't wait till I can do that!
5	Patrick Kane has a 14-game point streak. How long will it last?	Until his buzz wears off, probably.	Why ask when? Just enjoy the ride.	Till the bar runs out. Oh wait, I thought you said "pint."	Until his brother The Undertaker comes out and ... wait, we're talking about the WWE right?	As long as he continues to believe in himself.

'It was a freak play'

Chicago Tribune

Coach Marc Trestman had no explanation because, really, there is no explaining it.

Why did the Bears let a fumble, a live ball, sit on the turf without pursuing it late in the first half of their 33-28 loss to the Packers on Sunday? How could they let a Packers receiver pick up a fumble and jog into the end zone?

"There has never been a time this whole year where I've blown the whistle in practice and the ball was on the ground that we didn't pick it up and scoop and score with it," Trestman said. "For me to try to explain why that happened, I really can't at this time because we've never allowed the ball to sit on the ground like that at any time in practice."

It will go down in Bears-Packers lore as one of the wackiest touchdowns and, for the

Green Bay quarterback Aaron Rodgers signals touchdown to Jarrett Boykin. MCT

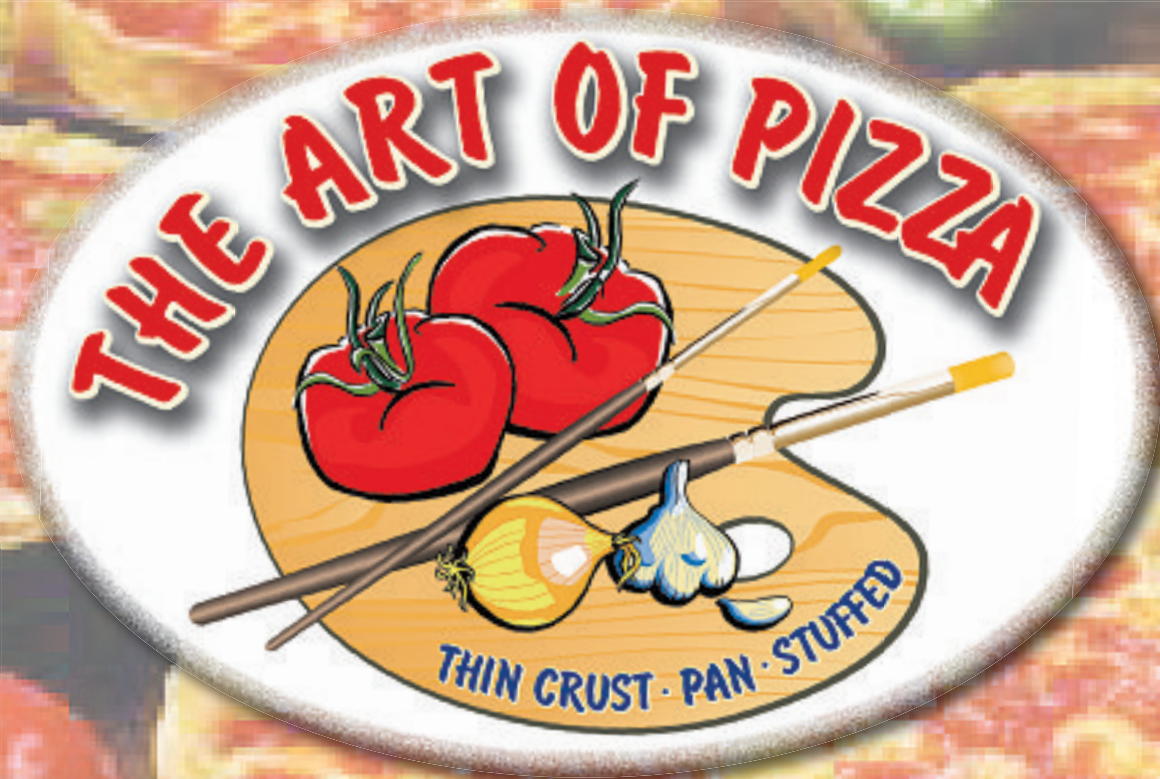

Bears, one of the most disappointing.

"We all thought it was a dead ball," Bears linebacker James Anderson said. "That's why everybody kind of stopped. It was a freak play. We've got to make sure we hear the whistle as opposed to just assume."

GET WELL SOON!

Anderson Silva's injury was gruesome enough to make even the most grizzled fight fan look away. (We spared you with the photo above.) On Sunday, the UFC announced Silva had successful surgery on his broken left leg. Silva snapped it Saturday during his middleweight title fight against Chris Weidman. UFC president Dana White said it is possible that the 38-year-old Silva (33-6) could return but said it would be "a tough thing to come back from." Here's wishing Silva the best.

1,000 meters Sunday at the long track speedskating U.S.
Olympic Trials in Kearns, Utah. Davis should be a contender—he already has four Olympic medals on his resume.

MOUTHWATCH
Right now, it seems like they have our number."

—Patrick Kane, after the Blackhawks' 6-5 loss Saturday at St. Louis. The Blues twice rallied from two-goal deficits to top the Hawks for the third time in as many meetings this season.

Literary Events and Offerings

Every Saturday, Chicago Tribune reaches more than 1.3 million Chicagoland adults. Tribune readers are book enthusiasts with over 1 million of all Saturday readers visiting a book store in the past twelve months. Not only are Chicago Tribune readers more likely to purchase books, but they also are 86% more likely to spend $200+ than the Chicagoland market average. For advertising rates and deadlines, please call 312-527-8061.

A&E reverses 'Duck Dynasty' star's suspension

Reuters

Cable network A&E said Friday it was bringing back family patriarch Phil Robertson to the hit reality show "Duck Dynasty" after fans protested his suspension over anti-gay remarks and big-name corporate sponsors stuck by the series.

Robertson's remarks to GQ magazine and his subsequent suspension by A&E sparked a nationwide debate over tolerance and religion, with conservative politicians and fans saying Robertson's beliefs were consistent with the Bible.

"As a global media content company, A&E Networks' core values are centered around creativity, inclusion and mutual respect," A&E said in a statement released late Friday in the midst of the holiday season.

"We believe it is a privilege for our brands to be invited into people's homes and we operate with a strong sense of integrity and deep commitment to these principles."

It was a quick reversal for the network that is jointly owned by Walt Disney Co. and privately held Hearst Corp, but the move was

—A&E, in a statement released late Friday not entirely surprising, given the financial commitment at stake. The controversy was also seen as a test for the entertainment industry's appeal to audiences in the heartland of America.

"Duck Dynasty" ranks among the most-watched cable TV programs and averages about 8 million viewers per episode. Its fifth season is slated to begin Jan. 15.

"Duck Dynasty" sponsors and retailers selling branded merchandise, such as Target and Wal-Mart, stuck with the show, although they did not pick sides in the public debate.

Restaurant chain Cracker Barrel notably bowed to customer pressure last weekend and restocked its Phil Robertson-themed merchandise after initially pulling it from shelves.

"Duck Dynasty" merchandise, which ranges from sporting goods and apparel to camouflage furniture, has brought in some $400 million in sales, according to Forbes magazine.

A&E said it would also air a national public service campaign "promoting unity, tolerance and acceptance among all people" on all its affiliated networks, which include the History Channel and Lifetime among others.

Phil Robertson

Although Robertson never apologized for his comments, his family did say they regretted his "coarse language," which included graphic descriptions of male and female anatomy.

ROMANCE PLANET

BY JENNIFER SHEPHERD | READ MORE AT LIPSTICKMYSTIC.COM

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19

You and your partner are hitting a sensual groove, thanks to the sun. You'll find 18 different erogenous zones on her body, many of them outlawed in conservative countries. Or you'll discover something special that turns him into your sexual slave.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 18

Let go of people who are a bad influence on you. You know that staying hung up on that ex-boyfriend will just make you more emotionally unstable. Or dealing with that girl who has a lot of "issues" will drag you down.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20

Neptune is helping you discover something that you've long hidden from yourself. Maybe you're actually attracted to brunettes instead of blondes. Maybe, deep down, you detest liberal cluelessness. The horror!

Aries March 21-April 19

Just because your fiancé left you at the altar doesn't mean it has to happen again. And just because your girlfriend ended up sleeping with your best friend doesn't mean your love life is doomed. The moon says cheer up.

Taurus April 20-May 20

Don't fight battles you'll never win. Your ex-husband is not going to come crawling back. Your former flame is not going to show up and admit you were the love of her life. Mars is urging you to move on.

Gemini May 21-June 21

Your appetite for kink is heightened, courtesy of the moon. You're tired of vanilla sex and boring dating routines. Give your lover an ultimatum: Either variety enters your bedroom, or you're leaving it for good.

Cancer June 22-July 22

Neptune is giving you weird feelings. You're wondering if that guy you just met is the love of your life, even though you don't believe such a thing is possible. Trust your gut.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22

The moon is warning you that you've misread a situation. That hot guy you were chatting with online actually is a girl from Ukraine who has been trolling for rich Americans. Or that girl you're in love with isn't telling you about her six kids by six baby daddies.

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22

You'll experience a moment of truth with your lover. "I've been faking my orgasms for years. Deal with it." "I'm still in love with my ex-wife. Deal with it." It will be painful at first, but the truth is always a good thing.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23

The practical aspects of a relationship could be escaping your attention. You're convinced that guy in Singapore who shares your love of online games is the love of your life. The moon says wake up and smell the coffee.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 21

Let go of a situation. You no longer feel that you'll "un-gay" your first boyfriend. You've abandoned the idea of proposing to that cute chick you met at youth hostels in Europe during college. It's time to move on.

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21

You're making progress in a relationship. You've lasted through three dates, and you're headed for the sex zone. You've made it through living together, and now you're thinking about adopting a puppy.

As if there was ever any doubt. Paris Club finished first in the Top Celebrity Hangouts rankings for the second year in a row, thanks in large part to its exclusive upstairs club, Studio Paris. This means the Melman siblings, R.J., Molly and Jerrod, owned the Top 2 venues on this year's list: Paris Club and RPM Italian. Here's a breakdown of the Top 5.

1. Paris Club

Celebs want to hang out at the most popular club in town. And for the last

Like a wrecking ball
This year just wouldn't be complete without one more piece of Miley Cyrus gossip, right? Well, as rumors of a budding relationship with Kellan Lutz swirl, the pair were spotted together Friday in Las Vegas, people.com reports. We repeat: THEY WERE SPOTTED TOGETHER!

Being Whitney?
Fresh off a comedic turn in "Anchorman 2," Meagan Good is talking up a Whitney Houston biopic, adding herself to the list of stars (Rihanna, Jennifer Hudson, Jordin Sparks) rumored to be in the running to play the late singer. Good had talked with Houston about doing a biopic before her death early last year, she told the Los Angeles Times.

THE DIGITS
$29.9 MILLION
That's how much "The Hobbit: The Desolation of Smaug" earned over the weekend, finishing atop the domestic box office for the third consecutive week.

$2.2 MILLION
That's how much "Justin Bieber's Believe" earned over the weekend, according to thr.com, making the concert documentary a certified box office bomb.
